APPLICATION INSTRUCTIONS

Grandparenting applications will be reviewed to determine the quantity and quality of experience in the field of applied sport psychology during the applicant’s professional career. Accordingly, applicants are encouraged to present materials that reflect an experiential gestalt, a consistent pattern of contributions in the development of themselves and the field of applied sport psychology. In order to be certified, all of the following conditions must be met as well as approval by a two-thirds of a quorum of the Certification Committee. You should make the strongest case possible for your applied sport psychology expertise, but try to include only a minimal amount of support materials.

B: EDUCATION (beginning with undergraduate college education)

List your graduate degrees, including information on your dissertation and any licenses or certifications that you have acquired. In the U.S., you must have completed a doctoral degree from an institution of higher education accredited by one of the regional accrediting bodies recognized by the Council of Postsecondary Accreditation, whereas in Canada, an institution of higher education must be recognized as a member, in good standing, of the Association of Universities and Colleges of Canada. Your degree must be in an area clearly related to sport science or psychology, and you must provide doctoral transcripts to document completion of your degree. Programs leading to a doctoral degree must include the equivalent of three full-time academic years of graduate study:

- two years of which are at the institution from which the doctoral degree is granted.
- one year of which is in full-time residence at the institution from which the doctoral degree is granted.

C. PROFESSIONAL EXPERIENCE

Three or more years of post-doctoral experience in applied sport psychology is needed. This experience must have resulted in a substantial amount of direct experience with participants or coaches in exercise, physical activity, or sport in the performance of services in the “AASP Certification Role Definition.”

C1. CONSULTATION EXPERIENCE

Include consultations or psychological services with amateur or professional athletes, teams, clubs, coaches, NGB’s etc. We recognize that some consultations are agreed to by formal contract, whereas others are informal agreements. Provide the best possible evidence that you have performed these services. This may be in the form of formal evaluations, letters from clients, or invitations for continuation of consultation. Note: A record demonstrating only a few presentations on sport psychology topics is not sufficient.
